

Marcela's Immigration Story

By Ximena

My name is Ximena and I go to HTeNC. We are doing a project on immigration so I interviewed my mom. I hope you enjoy it!

Life was good in Mexico with all Marcela's siblings, her brother and her sisters, her mom and her dad. She was happy with her life.

Marcella moved to the U.S. to continue her education. She brought a suitcase full of clothes essentials and stuff she would need.

Marcella came to the U.S. by plane. When Marcela got here she didn't know what people were saying because she was from Mexico, so she was new to the language. Marcella's home language was Spanish. Marcella enrolled in English classes to understand what others were saying.

Now she knows a new language, even if she is in the U.S. she is still Mexican. That is Marcella's immigration story.
